ACKNOWLEDGEMENT OF ASSISTANCE

All manuscripts utilizing data made available through the Consortium should acknowledge that fact as well as identify the original collector of the data. The ICPSR Council urges all users of the ICPSR data facilities to follow some adaptation of this statement with the parentheses indicating items to be filled in appropriately or deleted by the individual user.

The data (and tabulations) utilized in this (publication) were made available (in part) by the Inter-university Consortium for Political and Social Research. The data for the PHYSICAL VIOLENCE IN AMERICAN FAMILIES, 1976, were originally collected by MURRAY A. STRAUS and RICHARD J. GELLES with funding provided by the NATIONAL INSTITUTE OF MENTAL HEALTH, and by the UNIVERSITY OF NEW HAMPSHIRE. Neither the collector of the original data nor the Consortium bear any responsibility for the analyses or interpretations presented here.

In order to provide funding agencies with essential information about the use of archival resources and to facilitate the exchange of information about ICPSR participants' research activities, each user of the ICPSR data facilities is expected to send two copies of each completed manuscript or thesis abstract to the Consortium. Please indicate in the cover letter which data were used.

INTRODUCTION

DATA COLLECTION DESCRIPTION

The Physical Violence in American Families, 1976 data collection was conducted in 1976 at the University of New Hampshire with a grant from the National Institute for Mental Health. 2,143 respondents were interviewed in a nationwide sample of 960 males and 1,183 females. Interviews were conducted by Response Analysis, Inc. The purpose of the study was to ascertain methods of conflict resolution within the family. Information was gathered regarding the following areas: Tactics used to resolve conflicts between spouses, between children, and between parents and children, including detailed information on conflicts resulting in violence, resolution of conflicts in respondent's childhood family, family power structure, marital closeness and stability, personality and stress factors.

SAMPLING AND INTERVIEWING

The sampling design and interviewing for this data collection was carried out by Response Analysis Corporation of Princeton, New Jersey. The "Response Analysis National Probabliity Sample" relies entirely on prior specification of locations, households, and specific individuals to be interviewed. None of the selection steps are left to the discretion of the interviewer. The sequence of steps used included:

Selection of a national sample of 103 primary areas (counties or groups of counties) stratified by geographic region, type of community, and other population characteristics.

Selection of 300 interviewing locations, or secondary areas (census enumeration districts or block groups) from the national sample for use in this study.

Field counts by trained interviewers to divide interviewing locations into sample segments of 10 to 25 housing units.

Selection of specific sample segments in each interviewing location for field administration of the survey.

Random selection of the eligible person to be interviewed using a specific scheme assigned for each sample household.

More detailed information on each of these steps is available in the methodological report prepared by Response Analysis Corporation (Weisbrod, 1976). This will be supplied at cost (write to Response Analysis Corporation, Research Park, Route 206, Princeton, New Jersey 08540).

Eligible families consisted of a couple who identified themselves as married or being a "couple" (man and woman living together as a conjugal unit). A random procedure was used so that the respondents would be approximately half male and half female. The final national probability sample produced 2,143 completed interviews. Interviews were conducted with 960 men and 1,183 women.

Comparison with census data shows that this sample is representative in terms of major demographic attributes of American families, including even the same proportion of unmarried cohabiting couples as was found in a special census analysis (Yllo and Straus, 1978).

Response Analysis went to considerable lengths to secure a high completion rate, including up to four call-backs, letters, and in some cases monetary incentives. As a result, the completion rate for the survey as a whole was 65 per cent. The rate varied from a low of 60.0 per cent for metropolitan areas to a high of 72.3 per cent for non-metropolitan areas.

WEIGHTING INFORMATION

The following two weights were used in this study

 Interview completion rate within location <See REF 5>

Weights were assigned to compensate for differences in interview completion rates among interviewing locations. The weight factor for each location was proportionate to the number of completed interviews. Locations where the weight factor would be more than twice the average weight were combined with other similar locations, and weights were recalculated for the combined locations.

 Interview completion rate within demographic subgroup <See REF 4>

Weights were also assigned to adjust for observed differences in interview completion rates by sex of respondent. In all, we interviewed 960 men and 1,183 women. Since the sexes are equally represented in the universe of couples, we assigned a weight to men bringing them into their proper proportion.

FILE STRUCTURE

The Physical Violence in American Families, 1976 data collection is available from the ICPSR in two formats: card image and OSIRIS. The card image file contains several decks per case in a format based on 80 column punched cards. The data are sorted by case with all decks for a case together in ascending order.

The OSIRIS dictionary gives the format and other information for each variable in the OSIRIS data file. The dictionary or dictionary-codebook file is used in conjunction with the OSIRIS software package. The OSIRIS data file is constructed with a single logical record for each case. There are 496 variables on 2,143 cases.

The OSIRIS data file can be accessed directly through software packages or programs which do not use the OSIRIS dictionary by specifying the tape locations of the desired variables. These tape locations are given in the OSIRIS dictionary-codebook.

CODEBOOK INFORMATION

The example below is a reproduction of information appearing in the machine-readable codebook for a typical variable. The numbers in brackets do not appear but are references to the descriptions which follow this example.

[3] MD=0 OR GE 9 [2] PREVIOUS MARRIAGE-H [1] VAR 53 [4] LOC 79 WIDTH 1 [5] DK 2 COL 12 REF 53 [6] IMP DEC=

- [7] Q.3RH Has <husband> been married or lived with someone else before? How did the relationship end?
- [8]
- [9] SEE NOTE(S) n
- [10] Actual number is coded.
- [11] [12] [13]
- 16 1. Separation 243 2. Divorce 43 3. Death 4 4. Desertion 3 5. Other
- 1801 O. Not ended
 - 33 9. NA
- [14] Valid-n=???? Min=?? Max=?? Mean=??.? St.Dev=?.?

[1] Indicates the variable and reference numbers. A variable number and a reference number are assigned to each variable in the data collection. In the present codebook which documents the archived data collection these numbers are identical. Should the data be subsetted or rearranged by an OSIRIS program (e.g., MMP to intersperse data from another source, or TCOT to produce an analysis deck), the variable numbers would change to reflect the order of the new data collection, while the reference number would remain

- unchanged to reflect the variable number in the codebook describing the archived data collection.
- [2] Indicates the abbreviated variable name (maximum of 24 characters) used in the OSIRIS system to identify the variable for the user. An expanded version of the variable name can be found in the variable description list.
- [3] Indicates the code values of missing data. In this example, code values equal to 0 or greater than or equal to 9 are missing data (MD=0 OR GE 9). Alternative statements for other variables are "MD=0", "MD GE 9", or "NO MISSING DATA CODES". Some analysis software packages (including the OSIRIS software package) require that certain types of data which the user desires to be excluded from analysis be designated as "MISSING DATA," e.g., inappropriate, unascertained, unascertainable, or ambiguous data categories. Although these codes are defined as missing data categories, this does mean that the user should not or cannot use them in a substantive role if so desired.
 - [4] Indicates the starting location and width of this variable when the data are stored on a magnetic tape in the OSIRIS format. If the variable is of a multiple-response type, the width referenced is that of a single response. In this example the variable named "PREVIOUS MARRIAGE-H" is 1 column wide and is located in the 79th column within the record.
 - [5] Indicates the location by deck and column(s) of this variable when the data are on cards or in a card-image format (either 80- or 84- column format).
 - [6] A variable containing data with implied decimals is denoted by the message "IMP DEC= d", where d is the number of decimal places implied in the variable.
 - [7] This is the full text (question) supplied by the investigator to describe the variable. The question text and the numbers and letters that may appear at the beginning reflect the original wording of the questionnaire item.
 - [8] Indicates an additional comment or explanation appended to the variable description.

- [9] A variable which has a footnote associated with it is denoted by the message, "SEE NOTE(S) n" where n is the number of the footnote referenced.
- [10] Indicates that the variable has been declared continuous and the phrase "Actual number is coded" appears in the codebook.
- [11] Indicates the frequency of occurrence of each code value for this variable. Prequencies inserted in this codebook are not weighted.
- [12] Indicates the code values occurring in the data for this variable. The upper and lower boundaries of a range of values are separated by a "..", the ".." do not, however, appear in the data.
- [13] Indicates the textual definitions of the codes. Abbreviations commonly used in the code definitions are "DK" (DO NOT KNOW), "NA" (NOT ASCERTAINED), and "INAP" (INAPPROPRIATE).
- [14] Indicates the number of valid responses, the lowest coded response, the largest coded response, the mean, and the standard deviation for continuous variables.

ICPSR PROCESSING INFORMATION

The data collection was processed according to the standard ICPSR processing procedures. The data were checked for illegal or inconsistent code values which, when found, were recoded to OSIRIS missing data values. No consistency checks were performed. Statements bracketed in "<" and ">" signs in the body of the codebook were added by the processors for explanatory purposes. The archival processing of this data collection was done by Christine M. Guzorek, with assistance from Veronica Romanow.

Q.53EY. In some families where there are children, they always seem to be having spats, fights, disagreements, or what ever you want to call them; and they use many different ways of trying to settle differences between themselves. I'm going to read you a list of some things that (REFERENT CHILD) might have done when (he/she) had a disagreement with the other (child/children) in the family. For each one, I would like <you to tell me how often (REFERENT CHILD) did it during disputes with the other (child/children) in the past year, and if (he/she) has not done it in the past year, whether or not (he/she) has ever done it.>

No matter how well a couple gets along, there are times when they disagree on major decisions, get annoyed about something the other person does, or just have spats and fights because they are in a bad mood or tired or for some other reason. They also use many different ways of trying to settle their differences. I'm going to read you a list of some things that you and your (spouse/partner) might have done when you had a dispute, and would like you to tell me for each one how often <wife> did it in the past year.

VAR 0340 E CPLE DISCUSS CALMLY
REF 0340 LOC 521 WIDTH 2 DK 8 COL 44-45

Q.78EY. No matter how well a couple gets along, there are times when they disagree on major decisions, get annoyed about something the other person does, or just have spats and fights because they are in a bad mood or tired or for some other reason. They also use many different ways of trying to settle their differences. I'm going to read you a list of some things that you and your (husband/partner) might have done when you had a dispute, and would like you to tell me for each one how often <the two of> you did it in the past year <, and, if you have not done it in the past year, whether or not you have ever done it.>

Q.78EY1. Discussed the issue calmly

Items Q.78EY1-Q.78EY18 <See REF 340-357> were obtained by summing the separate EY (EVER + YEAR) item for the husband with the corresponding EY item for the wife. Each of these items is coded: 0 = Not in the past year and not previously (Never); 1 = Previously, but not in the past year; 2 = Once in the past year; 3 = twice in the past year; 4 = 3-5 times in the past year; 5 = 6-10 times in the past year; 6 = 11-20 times in the past year; 7 = More than 20 times in the past

Q.DIA. Here is something I'd like to ask you to do, thinking about how you feel parents should deal with a 12-year old. HAND RESPONDENT ANSWER SHEET #1 AND THE LARGE MANILA ENVELOPE On this page are three different actions -- taken from those we've been talking about -- that a parent might do when they have a disagreement or dispute with their child. Below each one are three scales with a descriptive word at each end, and I'm going to ask you to rate each of the actions on each of the three scales. Here is an explanation of how to use the scales. You will see that the example statement at the top of the page is "Doing things around the house." Beneath the statement is a scale with the word "fun" at one end, and the word "work" at the other end. All you have to do is put an "X" in a box somewhere between "fun" and "work" to show how you feel about doing things around the house. Will you please fill in the example scale, and then show me how you did it.

COMMUNITY CODE

The code is defined as follows:

Large metropolitan area (1,000,000 or more population)

- 1. Center City
- Other urban area (either an incorporated place with population of 2,500 or more or in an urbanized area)
- 3. Rural (all other locations)

Other metropolitan area (less than 1,000,000 population)

- 4. Center City
- 5. Other urban area (see above)
- 6. Rural (all other locations)

Nonmetropolitan area

- 7. Urban (see above)

 NOTE 2 ***

CONFLICT TACTIC SCALES (CTS)

The Conflict Tactic Scales are designed to measure intrafamily conflict in the sense of the means used to resolve conflicts of interests. Three different tactics are measured: (1) Reasoning: the use of rational discussion and argument; (2) Verbal: the use of verbal and symbolic means of hurting - such as insults or threats to hurt the other; and, (3) Violence: the actual use of physical force.

TEXT DESCRIPTION. The CTS consists of a list of actions which a family member might take in relation to a conflict with another member. The list of possible actions start with those low in coerciveness (such as discussing the issue). The items gradually become more coercive and physically violent, ending with whether the respondent ever used a knife or gun on his or her spouse. The response categories ask for the number of times each action occured during the past year, ranging from "Never" to "More than 20 times."

The CTS items are presented with pairs of response categories, one pair for each family "role relationship" to be measured. Thus, if the husband-wife relationship is the focus, respondents are asked to indicate how often they did each act in relation to their spouse in the past year, and how often the spouse carried out each action. Similiar pairs can be presented for the parent-child and the sibling-sibling roles. Thus, for each of the three conflict tactics, there can be at least seven individual actor scores: husband, wife, father, mother, child A (or all children), sibling A, and sibling B. The scores for the two partners in a role relationship can be combined into three role scores: spousal, parent-child, and sibling. A total family score can also be obtained for each conflict tactics.
